Council Expected To Order Work on Broad St. Viaduct

Special Session Called for Noon Today To Act on Project; Speedy Approval Forecast.

Approval by borough council today of a proposal on which Fulton county can co-operate with the municipality in the projected rebuilding of the Broad street viaduct is all that is needed to start immediate work on letting the contract.

Acting Mayor J. Charlie Murphy Friday called a special session of the Atlanta council for noon today to consider that matter primarily but stated in his call that any other matters which the council wishes to take up will be in order.

Predictions Friday were that council will approve the proposal of the bridge committee that Atlanta accept the terms on which Fulton county is enabled to assist in the project by an overwhelming vote, and that Murphy will approve the paper as soon as it reaches him.

Council's bridge committee Friday approved the county's action and a

67,000 Children Freed From Scholastic Tasks

Atlanta's army of 67,000 school youngsters quit shop Friday and today many of them will take the first plunge of the season when five municipally-operated swimming pools open for the summer months.

Despite the fact that school days are over for a time, there is a busy summer ahead for young Atlanta. Many will remain in Atlanta and attend the 30-odd playgrounds which will be opened a week from Monday under the direction of the parks department.

Park pools open at 1 o'clock this afternoon and all city-owned concessions are free to the public, under an order of the parks committee of council and George I. Simmons, general manager of parks and playgrounds.

Murphy quit the mayor's chair during the session of the bridge committee, to assist in presenting the proposition to the bridge committee.

"This is a matter over which we can not afford to quibble or waste time," he said. "The bridge has been condemned. It is an ever-present menace to the lives and property of those who traverse it. Our own engineers have told us without reservation that this is true.

"We should take whatever steps are necessary to assure immediate rebuilding of the bridge. If Fulton county were able to appropriate the funds in cash, I feel sure it would do so. It has exhibited implicit confidence in council before and appropriated $500,000 towards building the Pryor street and Central avenue viaducts. Atlanta let the contracts and the city did not have anything to do with that work but furnish its share of the money."

There are counters on both sides and in the center, these views affording some idea of the appearance of the spacious room. The equipment is all new and entirely modern, with electric refrigeration throughout. In addition to being spacious, the store is well ventilated and affords an abundance of light. It is finished in white with black trimmings.

Vauclain Sees Period of Great Prosperity

PHILADELPHIA, June 5.—(P)—With the return of confidence and consequent restoration of business, the United States will enjoy a period of prosperity never before seen in this country, said Samuel Vauclain, chairman of the board of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, today.

Speaking before the annual meeting of the American Railway Magazine Editors' Association, Vauclain denounced "supposed politicians" and their attacks on public utilities as a contributing cause of the economic depression.

"After passing through depressions as an individual since 1873," Vauclain said, "I can say that each one was followed by a period of prosperity greater than ever before and the present period of depression will prove no exception."

"Supposed politicians, and they are not even good politicians," said Vauclain, "who are ranting up and down the length of the country with their violent attacks, denouncing public utilities, denouncing all interests, including railroads and other industries in which people have their money invested, have helped to bring about the lack of confidence."

"The health service said:

"Meat is an active heat producing food as shown by the fact that natives of the far north live entirely on animal products; and therefore the amount of meat eaten during the hot season should be less than that eaten during the colder months."

The protests were turned over to the health service for answer. In reply, the health service said it had made this suggestion each summer for years and that it had no intention of retracting it.

Benning Regiment Parades For Editors of Nation

N. E. A. Party Visits Columbus, Warm Springs and Fort Benning.

COLUMBUS, Ga., June 5.—(AP)—Members of the National Editorial Association who are making a post-convention tour of Georgia arrived here late today to look over Columbus, Fort Benning and surroundings. Approximately 100 were in the editorial party. Their special train stopped but a short time in Columbus on its arrival from Warm Springs where the editors had been for a review of the 29th infantry directed held for them by Brigadier General Campbell. The train continued on to Fort Benning Infantry school.

The Fort Benning program included an inspection of military arms and equipment after the review and a dinner, tendered by the Columbus Chamber of Commerce, in the mess hall of Company F of the 29th infantry. For the review, the 29th infantry, which is the army's only war strength unit, had been provided with the new khaki uniforms recently issued by the quartermaster general.

The dinner program tonight was informal. It included welcome to the editors by Mayor J. Homer Dimon, of Columbus, and W. E. Page, of the R. W. Page Corporation. The dinner concluded the Benning program.

Returning to Columbus, the editors were given a special short train trip for a view of the lighted textile mills of the Columbus district.

Tonight's program included an inspection of the new Ledger-Enquirer Sun building, a parade, a reception, and a dance. The party was scheduled to leave here at 1 a. m. tomorrow for Macon.

En route to Columbus today, the editors stopped at Warm Springs to view the buildings and equipment of the health resort founded here by Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York.

On their arrival here, the editors were met by town officials and officials of the Warm Springs foundation. They were there four hours to inspect the resort where numbers of infantile paralysis sufferers come for recuperative purposes.

Swimming and golf were on the program at the resort.

The editors left Atlanta, early today. After visiting various cities and towns and going on to the Georgia coast, the editors will return to the Georgia Press Association on Lake Rabun.

This commission is composed of members from the Methodist, Episcopal church, south, and the Colored Methodist Episcopal church. Among its members are Dr. J. W. Perry, home missions secretary, Nashville, Tenn.; Dr. Will W. Alexander, professor, W. A. Bell, Dr. J. A. Martin, Dr. W. Y. Bell and Rev. J. D. Hudson, of Atlanta; Dr. N. C. Newbold, of Raleigh, N. C.; Bishop H. A. Carter and Dr. J. A. Bray, of Chicago, and Dr. E. C. Peters, of Augusta, Ga.

The commission called attention to the fact that only two large cities in Georgia have high schools for negroes supported by state funds. Said the commission in a resolution, "Macon and Savannah with nearly 100,000 each no accredited high schools for their negro children; for more than 66 years these children have had to depend upon the church or charity for their education above the ninth grade and in most instances above the eighth grade."

Wheat Harvesting Demonstration To Be Staged Near Monticello

MONTICELLO, Ga., June 5.—The largest estimated yield of wheat ever grown on Georgia lands is now rapidly reaching the harvesting stage on the farms operated by Dan Gunn and J. H. Goolsby, five miles southeast of Monticello, in Jasper county.

There are 100 acres in wheat which has already been visited by hundreds of farmers and expert wheat growers and authorities from all sections of the state who publicly announce this wheat to be the best ever seen in the state is expected to average 45 to 50 bushels per acre. "Extensive publicity has been given to this remarkable field of wheat."

A big field demonstration of harvesting this wheat is being prepared. The wheat, shoulder high, and a perfect stand with heavy heads, will be cut, threshed and sacked by a tractor-drawn combine of the latest machinery. Immediately behind the harvesting, a caterpillar tractor drawing a dozen disc plows will break the land stubble, and to this outfit will be attached a seeding machine to plant the field in soy beans. The entire procedure of harvesting, threshing, breaking the land and planting soy beans will be carried out at the same time by the latest and most approved labor-saving machinery. The exact date for this demonstration will be announced next week, as the wheat reaches full maturity. Proof will be given that profitable wheat production can be made on Georgia lands with yields higher than the best lands of the middle west.

The general public, agricultural leaders and officials will be invited and while refreshments are served at the noon hour short talks by prominent speakers are expected to be made. The highways from all sections to the farm, five miles southeast of Monticello, are in good condition.

Speakeasy Raids Minor Part Of Enforcement, Dry Czar Says

Woodcock Indicates Federal Forces Will Make No General Effort To Control Saloons.

BY THOMAS L. STOKES.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—(AP)—Federal Prohibition Director Amos W. Woodcock has about washed the hands of the federal government of any attempt to clean out speakeasies, a mushroom growth of prohibition, as part of the new approach to enforcement which takes cognizance chiefly of the big commercial liquor operator. Speakeasies ought to be handled by local agencies instead of the federal government, in Woodcock's opinion, and while the government will help as far as possible where local police apparently intend to do nothing, he indicates that any general control of the new-fangled saloon would not be attempted.

The prohibition enforcement generalissimo made this revelation when he returned here Thursday from a six-week trip which took him all over the west and northwest, as well as to Hawaii, and, in particular, to Reno, Nev., where many speakeasies are reported to be doing a rushing business serving the thirsty who have gone there to get divorces or gamble—or both. Woodcock was led to talk of speakeasies in connection with inquiries from a large group of newspapermen as to the situation in Reno. "Reno is no different from any other place in respect to my knowledge of it," he said. "My agents at Reno tell me the selling of liquor is now behind barred doors. The effort has been to drive the open saloon to cover."

This led to some reference to New York city, haven of palatial speakeasies with plush carpets and carved bars, and then the prohibition director outlined his policy as to the speakeasy. "We think the speakeasy problem ought to be cared for by local authorities. If they don't do it, we try to. We can do this—can effectively prosecute by padlocking. We hope the closing of one will be a deterrent to others."

"We are not setting the emphasis of federal enforcement on the speakeasies."

Paul Robeson, American negro actor, referred to "two or three little annoyances in London," but added that the incidents have occurred in places frequented mostly by Americans.

PANTAGES JURORS HEAR GIRL TESTIFY

Miss Nitto Admits "Trade" With Prosecutor in "Love Mart" Probe

SAN DIEGO, Cal., June 5.—(AP)—

Lydia Nitto, complaining witness against Alexander Pantages, wealthy showman, in a juvenile delinquency case, today testified that last year she signed an affidavit saying she was born in New York July 4, 1908. Earlier in the day the young woman, alleged companion of the showman in a gay hotel party, had testified she was 17 years old and a native of Genoa, Italy.

Pantages and three co-defendants are charged with conspiring to bring Miss Nitto, a minor, just 17 years old, to the party and committing moral offenses against her constituting violations of the juvenile court law.

Co-defendants in the trial are: Jesse H. Shreve, businessman, and Olive Clark Day and William Jobelmann, alleged operators of a Hollywood "girl market."

Age in Question.

If Miss Nitto was born in 1908 as she attested in the affidavit, when applying for work as a "taxi dancer" in Los Angeles, she was 22 years old at the time of the party here and would not come within the jurisdiction of the juvenile law, defense attorneys said.

The girl, crying or near tears throughout, testified that Mrs. Day called her by telephone in Los Angeles on the morning of October 30 and asked her if she wished to go to San Diego to attend a party for which she would be paid $15.

"I said, 'Yes,'" Miss Nitto answered. En route to the party, Miss Nitto said Mrs. Day informed her that she was to be the partner of Alexander Pantages, who would be going under the name of Alec Brown.

The girl burst into tears when asked to describe what occurred when, after waiting in a show on honor, she finally was taken to the hotel and left alone with Pantages in his left arm.

A moment later, she proceeded, describing the offenses charged by the prosecution.

Given $10 by Pantages.

Just before the others returned to the room, Miss Nitto said, Pantages gave her $10 and told her she was "too young to be here."

Jerry Geisler, Pantages' attorney, obtained from Miss Nitto testimony that at the time she was questioned by district attorney investigators in Los Angeles last February, she denied that Pantages had mistreated her, but after being incarcerated in the Los Angeles juvenile hall three days, she changed her story.

Miss Nitto testified she understood that she had admitted to Los Angeles investigators a number of improprieties for which she could be sent to a juvenile detention home to remain there until she was 21.

She said she had been told that she would not be prosecuted as a delinquent if she testified against Pantages, and the others, and would be sent by the Los Angeles district attorney's office back to New York, her former home, after the trial.

SIX BANK OFFICIALS INDICTED IN PROBE

Named in the indictments were W. R. Drake Jr., president of the defunct Raleigh Banking & Trust Company, which closed September 15, 1930; J. M. Brewer, president of the defunct Citizens bank of Wake Forest, which closed March 28, 1929; T. E. Bobbitt, cashier of the Wake Forest bank, and T. R. Arrington, R. M. Squires and S. W. Brewer, members of its board of directors.

Drake was already under indictment on a charge of making an illegal loan, while the others had approximately $245,000 on deposit in the Raleigh bank when it closed.

GUS E. LUNSFORD HELD PENDING MURDER TRIAL

Gus E. Lunsford, 60-year-old stone cutter of Stone Mountain, who is alleged to have shot and killed Joseph Ashburn, another stone cutter, Thursday night, was still in DeKalb county jail Friday night pending arrangements for his trial on a charge of murder. He is said to have admitted the shooting to Sheriff Jake Hall, giving as his reason that Ashburn betrayed his 14-year-old daughter more than a year ago. Ashburn was indicted on the charge in April, but when the daughter refused to testify, he was released.

CHASE NATIONAL WINS INGOT SUIT

NEW YORK, June 5.—(AP)—The Bank of France today lost its $50,000,000 suit against the Chase National bank and the Equitable Trust Company to recover that amount in gold ingots received by the defendant banks from the Soviet government in February, 1928.

Federal Judge Francis G. Caffey dismissed the suit from the bench, ending a trial that had taken nine weeks to present and three days for summation.

The gold in dispute was purchased in behalf of the Bank of France prior to 1917 and was in vaults in banks of Petrograd when the Soviet government came into power and confiscated it. Later the Soviet government sought to dispose of the gold through the defendant banks. The gold finally was shipped back to Russia.

Justice Caffey, in his decision, held that diplomatic recognition of the Soviet republic by France removed the issue in the case as between the Bank of France and the Soviet state, confining the claim to the realm of diplomacy.

Despite the failure of the United States to recognize the Soviet regime, he declared he "cannot escape the conclusion" that that regime is a government.

FRIEND OF RUSSIA DENIED SOVIET VISA

ROCHESTER, N. Y., June 5.—(AP)—Rev. David Rhy. Williams, Unitarian minister here, and an advocate of tolerance for Russia, was notified today that Soviet authorities had refused him a visa to visit the country this year. Rev. Mr. Williams toured Russia in 1929 and later delivered nearly 100 addresses in this country, urging a better understanding of the Soviet experiment.

Ingenuity, Skill of Atlanta Youth Displayed As Tiny Airplanes Soar Over Piedmont Park

Miniature planes skimmed above Piedmont park Friday afternoon in such numbers that they suggested another concentration of army air squadrons for defense maneuvers. It was the contest sponsored by The Constitution to test the ingenuity and inventive genius of Atlanta youths in toy airplane construction and Cade Stapleton, 16, Decatur High student, of 115 Benson avenue, won first in aircraft design and operation.

An unofficial entry, Howard Apperson's twin pusher, stayed up more than three minutes, but the owner was ineligible to compete as he is over the age limit for contestants.

The competitors, including the winners of first, second and third prizes, were awarded the privilege of making an inspection and educational tour of Eastern Air Transport's shops at Candler field. The other winners in this group were Walter Pendleton, Grady Brooks, Charles McKinnon, James Stapleton, Arthur Young Jr., Spencer Jones, Dexter Gatehouse and Bill Paxton.

More than a score of planes of all types and sizes were entered in the contest.

Willis Haviland, of American Airways, Inc., judge of the contest, complimented the winners on the cleverness displayed in the construction and navigation of the planes.

FARMERS' PLIGHT BLAMED ON BANKS

Cotton as Sole Basis of Credit Scored in Soule Address.

If the south is "cotton-poor," the fault lies not with the farmers, but with bankers and businessmen who insist on cotton as a basis for credit, Dr. Andrew M. Soule, president of the Georgia State College of Agriculture, stated Friday in an address before the southeastern economic council at the Biltmore hotel.

No sound program of procedure for the raising of cotton has yet been worked out in the state, Dr. Soule added.

Dr. Soule's address was made before representatives of various southern states meeting to perfect the organization of the council, which is designed to place agricultural, commercial and industrial activities of this section under a centralized leadership, and to segregate the south-east, more or less, as a definite economic unit in itself.

Officers of the permanent organization named in the one-day meeting Friday were as follows: Frank Page, of Raleigh, N. C., president; David E. Coker, of Hartsville, S. C., agricultural vice president; W. D. Anderson, of Macon, president of the Bibb Manufacturing Company, industrial vice president; and Walter C. Taylor, of Charlotte, N. C., secretary. J. E. S. Thorpe, of Bryson City, S. C., president of the Georgia State College of Agriculture, was elected chairman. The next meeting will be held in Savannah during the fall.

Vice presidents from each state included in the council are: Dr. Bradford Knapp, of Auburn, Ala., president of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute; H. N. Rodenbaugh, of St. Augustine, Fla., vice president of the Florida East Coast railway; Bona Allen Jr., of Buford, Ga.; R. G. Ithett, of Charleston, S. C.; former Governor Harry E. Byrd, of Virginia; J. Frank Porter, of Tennessee; and J. E. S. Thorpe, of North Carolina.

"A southeastern concept is what businessmen of this section need; a consciousness of the southeast as a unit in itself, where the good of one is the good of all," according to Earl Whitehouse, of New York city, vice president of the McGraw-Hill Publishing Company. In the course of his address Mr. Whitehouse deplored the "state antipathies" and the spirit of competition that still exist among southern states and communities.

C. A. Cobble, of Atlanta, also a speaker at the meeting, asserted that the cotton problem of the south would be to a great extent cleared up if low-grade cotton were used for bagging, instead of forcing, as it does now, a drain on the rice even of high-grade cotton.

Other speakers at the afternoon session included John J. Cornell, of Savannah, and professor S. H. Hobbs Jr., of the University of North Carolina, Spoutlet, at the morning session included: Dr. Anderson, of Macon; Dr. Bradford Knapp, and E. G. Gerish, personal representative of Dr. Julius K. H. director of the foreign trade bureau of the department of commerce. Attending were district managers of the department of commerce in Jacksonville, Birmingham, Atlanta, Charleston and Charlotte.

Objects of the new organization have been announced as follows: 1.—To develop common understanding of the economic problems of the south-eastern area. 2.—To stimulate a broader expression of opinion vital to the welfare of this economic area. 3.—To promote and maintain a sense of its importance of the southeast.

CO-OP EXECUTIVES OUST NORTHINGTON

American Cotton Group Charges Irregularities to Ex-President.

NEW ORLEANS, June 5.—(AP)—Allen Northington, Prattville, Ala., banker, was removed by the board of directors from the presidency of the American Cotton Co-operative Association, E. F. Creekmore, vice president, announced late today after an executive meeting of the board.

Mr. Northington's resignation was requested after a conference held in May and he subsequently tendered it to the board of directors, who finally acted on it today.

Mr. Creekmore said the action was taken after a prolonged meeting of the board which went into alleged irregularities in the finances of the Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton Association, which had been removed from the Alabama association and the First National bank of Prattville, which closed May 27 and of which Mr. Northington was president.

Cooper, also removed, was the Alabama association, Mr. Creekmore said, also had been removed from his office and the bondsmen of both Northington and Cooper had been notified.

The Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton Association, Mr. Creekmore said, had about $120,000 on deposit in the First National bank of Prattville at the time it closed its doors.

Mr. Northington is now under bond of $100,000 pending a grand jury indictment of the bank situation.

Mr. Creekmore issued the following formal statement on the action taken: "The attention of the officials of the American Cotton Co-operative Association was called to alleged irregularities in the finances of the Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton Association early in May. A conference with Mr. Allen Northington, secretary-general manager of that association, was held on May 4, as a result of which Mr. Northington's resignation was requested and given as president of the American Cotton Co-operative Association, as a director of the Cotton Stabilization Corporation and as secretary and general manager of the Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton Association."

"The matter was promptly called to the attention of the board of directors of the American Cotton Co-operative Association with the result that Mr. Northington's resignation as an official of that organization and its subsidiaries was immediately accepted and his bondsmen were notified."

"The Alabama directors also requested the immediate resignation of Mr. W. T. Cooper, assistant secretary and office manager, and his bondsmen were also notified."

"At the meeting of the directors of the American Cotton Co-operative Association, held in New Orleans yesterday, the matter was again discussed, and Mr. Northington's resignation as a director and officer of the American Cotton Co-operative Association was accepted."

"It appears on a basis of the information at present available that most of the irregularities in the accounts of the Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton Association arose from improper financial relations between the association and the First National bank of Prattville, Ala., of which Mr. Northington was president, and which closed its doors last week shortly after Mr. Northington's resignation had been accepted."

"The total amount of money involved is not yet known. In a considerable number of cases, members of the Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton Association delivered cotton without drawing immediate advances thereon, but expecting to get it at a later date. Money was borrowed from the association, and instead of the proceeds being paid to the member, they were diverted to other uses. As a result of this situation many members of the Alabama association have money due them, and the association itself has made arrangements to promptly pay these legitimate claims."

"All spot cotton or the proceeds thereof delivered to the Alabama association by its members in the hands of the American Cotton Co-operative Association. When all of the cotton has been sold by the American Cotton Co-operative Association and proceeds received therefrom, final settlement will be made by the Alabama association with its members under the direct supervision of officials of the American Cotton Co-operative Association."

"No other state cotton co-operative is in any way affected by the Alabama situation, and no funds of either the American Cotton Co-operative Association or the Cotton Stabilization Corporation are involved."

Carl Williams, member of the farm board, who attended the meeting here, said tonight that "this is the first time in the history of cotton co-operative marketing when any question as to misappropriation of funds by an officer or employee has ever arisen."

Mr. Creekmore said that the fixing of percentages of advances on the farmers' cotton probably would await the annual meeting of the association to be held on June 25, in New Orleans or Washington. Sufficient estimates on the crop were not yet in hand, he said.

COOPER DISCHARGED

MONTGOMERY, Ala., June 5.—(AP)—The board of directors of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation today discharged W. T. The board also directed officials of the association to present the facts to the solicitor of the Montgomery circuit court. The "irregularities" mentioned in the resolutions were explained by the board in its statement issued after the meeting.

Ida M. Tarbell Claims Lincoln Never Told Off-Color Anecdotes

Editor's note: Ida M. Tarbell, author and editor, who writes several columns on Abraham Lincoln, says she has never been able to trace to him evidence worth accepting as a precedent to a decent-minded listener. "I think it quite possible that when Dr. Holland said that the whole west was full of his gross stories he was really saying that every ancient and obscure yarn retold was begun, to give it freshness—there is a new Lincoln story"—quite a common enough habit.

I have sometimes suspected, too, that those who insisted on his grossness might have been finding what they looked for—and enjoyed—that in their own minds.

There is another bit of evidence which Dr. Brill uses which needs qualification. In talking of Lincoln's father, Tom, he overlooks, as did Senator Beveridge, his chief authority, the rather extensive documentary evidence collected and published by Dr. Louis Warren proving that Tom Lincoln was neither an illiterate or shiftless as most of his biographers would like to have us believe—a literary device to throw his son's greatness into still higher light, making him more of a "mystery."

Dr. Brill calls attention to Lincoln's refusal to visit his father in what proved to be his last illness, but he does not give the real reason which is in the letter from which he quotes. It was a good reason, all those who knew his wife, Mary Lincoln, and her ways agree. She was having a baby and would not allow Mr. Lincoln out of her sight; particularly would she have made it difficult for him to go to his father for she detested the family, always objected to his seeing or helping them. In Springfield parlance "they weren't good enough for her," that is, I am not quite as sure as Dr. Brill is by the "odious situation."

However, Dr. Brill has written a careful and interesting paper and a more full, provocative.

ALMSHOUSE SITE OFFER WITHDRAWN

English Informs Board That County's Option Had Been Terminated.

Plans for trading Fulton county's almshouse property, in the northern section of the county, for a larger tract in the southwest portion, Friday were brought to an end when the county commission received a letter from Harry English, president of the Chattahoochee Brick Company, withdrawing the offer of the company for a swap.

Mr. English informed Walter C. Hendrix, chairman of the commission, that the option given the county had been terminated because of the expiration of an extension of the time limit. The commission recently reached a deadlock on the proposal, prior to the election of Commissioner George F. Longino, in the only vote taken on the matter.

Dr. W. L. Gilbert and Chairman Hendrix voted against the trade, and Commissioner Walter B. Stewart and Paul S. Etheridge were in favor of the deal. The proposed trade was a storm center of comment while it was before the board.

MISS EMILY HOWSON PASSES AT HOSPITAL

Miss Emily Howson, professor of astronomy at Agnes Scott College, died Friday afternoon at a private hospital after an illness of several weeks. She was the daughter of Henry Howson, Philadelphia patent lawyer.

Miss Howson graduated at Bryn Mawr College in 1910 and received her master's degree from the same institution two years later. At the time of her death she had just completed her work for a doctor's degree from the University of Wisconsin, where she had studied in 1913-14. She had been teaching at Agnes Scott College for the last 12 years.

Funeral services will be held in Philadelphia, probably Monday, where the body will be taken by her sister, Miss Margaret Howson, and her father.

PERJURY IS CHARGED TO MARTIN WITNESS

A warrant charging J. C. Shaw, tire man, with perjury, was sworn out Friday afternoon by C. E. Martin, whose motion for a new trial on a bribery conviction will be heard today in Fulton superior court. The perjury warrant was sworn out in municipal court of Atlanta and the case will be heard this morning by Judge Luther Z. Rosser. Shaw made a $500 bond for appearance.

Shaw was a witness for the state in Martin's bribery trial. The state charged that Martin bought some tires from Shaw and contended that non-enforcement of collection of the bill constituted bribery. Shaw had some money to pay for a city license and called up Martin, a license inspector, who told him "not to worry," that he would take care of it, according to testimony. Shaw said that he thought Martin would pay the license bill for him in lieu of paying the tire man.

W. R. Bentley, attorney for Martin, said Friday night that the warrant was taken out after several friends of Martin reported him to him that Shaw made a statement saying he did not testify to certain statements at the trial of Martin.

"We are going to be able to produce witnesses who will testify that Shaw told me he did not make certain statements on the witness stand and that he said 'I statements I did make convey a meaning derogatory to Martin I did not mean them that way,'" Bentley asserted.

COMPANY ATTACKS 'ONE-MAN CAR' BAN

The Georgia Power Company, faced by a new city ordinance requiring operation of two-man cars within the Atlanta fire limits, Friday took the case to federal court and asked for an injunction to restrain the borough from enforcing the ordinance. The company charges that the ordinance violates the fourteenth amendment to the United States constitution by alleged confiscatory features.

Judge E. Marvin Underwood issued a rule nisi ordering the borough to show cause on June 22 why the injunction and relief prayed for should not be granted. At that time the borough is to answer a petition by which the power company seeks to have the ordinance declared null and void and erect a bar against prosecution under the council paper setting a fine of $200 and a sentence of 30 days as the penalty for operation of a one-man car within the fire limits.

The ordinance attacked by the power company is scheduled to go into effect July 15. It was approved by the mayor on May 7 and, according to the power company's petition, will cost the street railway the sum of $540,750 a year in additional wages and wipe out the net income from street railway operation, if enforced.

ATLANTA COLONY MAKES MERRY AT SEA ISLAND BEACH

Summer Hours Are Filled With Beach, Water Sports

By Bessie S. Stafford.

SEA ISLAND BEACH, Ga., June 5.—The long-houred summer days are filled with interesting activities for the Atlanta colony at Sea Island Beach. The important role that cotton is playing in the creation of smart beach pajamas is illustrated in Mrs. Charles S. Northern's new yellow cotton crepe pajamas. She wears them at the casino and when bathing in beach chairs beneath gaily striped umbrellas, with her bathing suit of jersey and her straw hat in the same shade of yellow. She is a beautiful blonde, quite like Ann Harding of the movies, is of medium height, slender and quite stylish. She wears her clothes with an individual flair, and possesses a charming and most unaffected manner. Mr. and Mrs. Northern are honeymooning at the Hotel Cloister, this recent bride and bridegroom having married at a brilliant church ceremony the last week in May in Birmingham, Ala. She was Miss Jennie Hood Hunt, only child of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Hunt. They expect to motor to Sylacauga, Ala., next week, where they will reside in future. Mr. Northern being connected with the Avalon mills, located at Sylacauga.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Fleming and their children, Frank Jr., Harry and Hayden; their sister, Miss Nellie Hightower, and George Harrison, their cousin, are enclosed in an attractive yellow stucco cottage, built quite close to the ocean, its waters dashing beneath the casements and the tang of the sea fills the house. They fared forth on a fishing expedition last Wednesday and caught some 300 croakers, whiting and trout, Harry Fleming having to his credit 30 of this number.

Mr. and Mrs. Jackson Dick have a cottage next to the one occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Chip Robert, and have a cabana on the beach also. Mrs. Dick is fetching pajamas and the bandana tied over her bathing cap are of Breton blue seersucker, polka-dotted in huge white dots. Her Breton blue jersey bathing suit reveals a deep V-back, and she has acquired a stunning shade of tan that makes an effective contrast. Jackson Dick Jr. and Henry Dick, their sons, romp over the sands with "Dixie," their cunning Scotch terrier, who shed at his first glimpse of the mighty ocean, but soon outgrew his timidity, and follows the boys into the surf twice a day.

The Atlantic ocean rolls within view of Mr. and Mrs. Frank McGaughey's cottage; but they bathe in the casino pool, and take their dips in the ocean in front of the casino. Miss Mary McGaughey, a pretty titian-haired miss of some 12 summers, looks very engaging in a polo blue jersey bathing suit, worn beneath yellow gingham pajamas. She is passing through the blustering stage at present, in order to reach the much-desired sunburnt stage. Frank Jr. and Alex McGaughey Jr., the Damon and Pythias duo of Sea Island Beach, enjoy the water sports of pool and ocean, while 13-month-old Jim Haverly McGaughey likes the ocean so well that he screams with delight at an oncoming breaker, and absolutely refuses to leave the water.

Children Admired.

Children come in for their share of admiration at the beach, and when not floating boats on the calm surface of the pool, they are digging in the sand and filling their tin buckets with shells and sand. They Grant Owens looks adorable in a yellow sun suit, and her little brother, Frank Owens Jr., wears a red sun suit. Clark Howell III and Billy Barnett Howell, handsome young sons of Mr. and Mrs. Clark Howell Jr., wear green sun suits one day and change to red ones the next day. Zaida Clay is taking swimming lessons in the pool and is making splendid headway, but she had to call a halt on swimming in the sunshine, because her arms and shoulders were blistered. Her mother, Mrs. Ryburn Clay, watches intently on the side lines, dressed in skipper blue pajamas, topped by a white blouse finished at the neck with rows of red, white and blue, and a huge straw hat, banded in the national colors, rests upon her blond curls. Mrs. Clara Baker looks like a beach sailor, dressed in dark blue overall beach pajamas made of dark blue flannel and a white and blue striped sweater. The stripes going around, complete her costume. A dark blue beret is set at a chic angle on her head. Cary Baker Jr., who swims like a fish, makes graceful swan dives from the highest board and does other water stunts equally well. Black and yellow form the combination of the swimming suit worn by Mrs. Clark Howell Jr., and she appeared Thursday morning in white flannel pajamas and a white coat, with a red and white sash tied around the waistline to give a colorful note.

The Ivy cottage will be occupied the middle of June by Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Newton and their son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McDaniel, Mrs. Edwin F. Johnson and her son, Louis Johnson, are expected Sunday to spend two weeks at the Cloister. Mrs. Roy Dorsey accompanied Mrs. Harrison Jones here Friday, and they will spend the Jones cottage over the weekend. Located almost at the end of Sea Island drive is the white clapboard, green-shuttered cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Smith Jr. and Dr. and Mrs. John T. Denton. This perhaps is the liveliest spot on the beach because there are nearly a dozen young people housed here to give action and gaiety. Misses Anna Blake Morrison, Helen Hill Smith, Helen Hill Hopkins, Laura Payne Smith, Emily Smith, the twins, Joan and Carroll Smith; Helen Peoples, of

Hostess and Guest Honored at Luncheon

A lovely compliment to a charming young hostess and her guest will be the luncheon at which Miss Meador and Miss Susan Jones will entertain today at Nanette's tea room in Athens in honor of Miss Helen Alvis Howard and Miss Betty Collins of Nassau, Bahamas Islands. Miss Howard and Miss Collins are students at the exclusive Finch school in New York City and returned this for their vacations. Miss Collins will spend a month as the guest of Miss Howard at her home on Fourteenth street and a number of social affairs will be given in her honor. Most of these parties will not be given until the latter part of next week when Miss Margaret Valentine of Richmond, Va., will arrive to join her schoolmates and to spend two weeks as the guest of Miss Howard.

Miss Harris Weds J. F. Lambert

PORT VALLEY, Ga., June 5.—Announcement has been made here of the marriage in Cochran Wednesday of J. F. Lambert and Miss Ruby Harris, both of Port Valley. As Miss Harris was one of the most popular young women in the city and a member of families who were pioneer citizens of this section of the state. She is a granddaughter of the late Jake Slappey and Mrs. Stella Neil Slappey on her maternal side, and on her paternal side she is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Harris, all of whose names are linked with the founding of Port Valley and its early history.

The couple motored to Cochran, where Mr. Lambert's brother, who is pastor of the Methodist church, performed the marriage ceremony. After a brief wedding trip they will be at home on Everett square, Port Valley. Mr. Lambert's daughters are Miss Laura Lambert, who is a student at Shorter College, Rome, and Misses Julie and Frederica Lambert, of the Port Valley High school.

Washington, D. C., and the only boy in the group, Alex Smith Jr., compose the merry company. Over at the Cloister Miss Louise Calhoun is being chaperoned by her grandmother, Mrs. A. W. Calhoun, and Mrs. J. Carroll Payne is also at the hotel for a fortnight's visit. Down below the Smith cottage is the stucco house to be occupied the middle of June by Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell King and Mitchell King Jr., the latter planning to bring several of his friends here to enjoy the amusements of Sea Island Beach. Mr. and Mrs. Russell Richards motored to the beach from Atlanta and will spend several days here. Brunswick was the girlhood home of Mrs. Richards, who was formerly Miss Ruby Dart, and she motors to and from Brunswick, where she goes to renew old friendships and visit her legion of relatives.

Burgess Children's Stories

A FUNNY NURSERY.
By Thornton W. Burgess.

Cocky the Road Runner and Mrs. Cocky were very much upset. Yes, indeed, they were very upset. Farmer Brown's boy had found their nest. They had anxiously watched him going from one patch of chaparral to another and peering into and through each and looking into every lone cholla and clump of cactus. They had kept themselves well hidden, but never once had they allowed him to get out of their sight. Twice he had passed the place where their nest was hidden in the middle of a cholla without seeing it. He had at last started for his horse to ride back to the ranch and they had begun to breathe easier. Then he had turned back for one more look and this time he had found the nest. Do you wonder they were upset? You see, they didn't really know Farmer Brown's boy. He had stopped only long enough to peep into the nest for a glimpse of the four little Road Runners and then he had hurried away. Mrs. Cocky sighed with pure relief. "Thank goodness, he has gone. I hope he never comes back," said she. "I hope the same thing," replied Cocky. "He made me nervous."

"He'll be back. I feel it in my bones," declared Mrs. Cocky. She was right. Very early on the following morning Farmer Brown's boy was back and for a while he was very busy close to that cholla where the nest was, and Cocky and Mrs. Cocky spent a half hour of such worry as they had seldom known. Then he had disappeared. Where he had gone they hadn't the least idea. As a matter of fact, he had slipped inside a blind that he had been setting up. Of course they saw the blind and for a time were suspicious of it. But they soon made up their minds that it wasn't alive and therefore was harmless. The babies were hungry and must be fed. It was something to be thankful for that that two-legged creature had gone away. So Mrs. Cocky visited the nest to make sure the babies were all right and then both she and Cocky hurried away to hunt for food. They little guessed that they had left Farmer Brown's boy within three or four feet of their nest with his precious contents. Peeping through an opening made for the purpose, he looked right into the nest which was now the nursery of four young Road Runners. There were as many sizes as there were young. One was a homely black bird with no feathers and it was quite evident that he had not been long from the egg. Another was just beginning to feather and was as homely as most bird babies are at that stage. A third was well feathered, but still something of a baby, while the fourth was half grown and almost ready to climb down and try out his legs. Already he had something of a crest, but his tail was still short. Besides these there was an egg which looked as if it might have been freshly laid. Altogether it was a funny nursery.

CHARMING SCHEMES SUGGEST THEMSELVES.

Yes! There is something always interesting about jackets suits. Especially when they are carried out in a gaily printed crepe silk in red and white with white crepe contrast as today's model.

It is delightful with the skirt of white wool jersey with the sleeveless blouse of white cotton mesh. For contrast, the jacket is made of vivid red jersey.

Another entirely different idea, equally smart, is opal green linen with the blouse of opal yellow eyelid batiste.

Shantung, pastel flat washable crepe silk and men's silk shirting are charming mediums.

Style No. 384 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 36 and 38 inches bust.

The 16-year size requires 4 5/8 yards of 39-inch material for jacket and skirt 1 1/2 yards of 35-inch material for blouse.

PEACE PACT MADE IN AUTO TAG "WAR"

Peace in the tag war between Georgia and Florida was assured Friday when W. S. McLean, motor vehicle commissioner for Florida, and George H. Carswell, holding the same position in Georgia, signed an agreement not to molest cars entering either state from the other "unless operated for hire."

At Carswell's invitation, he came to Atlanta and discussed the troubles which have been acute recently in both Georgia and Florida toward the state which has been called "We realize," the agreement said, "that it is no time to require extra tax burdens upon the citizens of either state and we hereby signify this agreement that the people of both Florida and Georgia may do business with each other with the least cost and embarrassment to the citizens of both states."

FRIENDLY COUNSEL BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD: I am an old maid 40-plus. I have a good job, am ideally situated at home. I don't want to get married and yet when a good looking, attractive widower makes a fuss over me it goes to my head. I know he doesn't want to get married and that he is equally pleasant and agreeable to every other old maid and widow of his acquaintance, as he is to me. Yet, in spite of those facts, which I recognize, it is impossible for me to be natural around him. What am I going to do about it? Before his wife died I had only a slight acquaintance with him. Now I see him often and offend him every time I see him when I really want his friendship and enjoy his companionship. Can't you shed some light on the difficulty?

ANSWER: No one likes to have an outsider reveal the truth about oneself to oneself. Yet in this case it is absolutely necessary in order to answer the question this letter contains. It is hard to know oneself. It is so hard that most of us fail to do it. I proposed this question to a professor of psychology in a well known college. He is a wise man, a learned man, and a big-hearted man. His comment was this: "The woman is irritated by not being able to fence the man in and her irritation necessarily comes out in her conversation with him. It is entirely possible that she does not want to get married. It is entirely possible that she would not marry this man if he wanted her to, but the fact that he doesn't come to the point settles her."

It's the fact of being thwarted that puts you in a pet. It is the failure to bring the man to the point that vexes you. You won't have the temptation to get angry or to show irritation when the conversation hinges on purely impersonal matters. Try it anyhow. You are failing in the present plan. A new one couldn't be worse.

SOUTHERN RAIL LINES INVITED TO RATE MEET

NEW YORK, June 5.—(AP)—Indications that the move for higher rail road freight rates would become nationwide appeared today at a meeting of eastern railway presidents, which was also attended by representatives of western lines. The conference decided to invite southern railroad presidents to attend another meeting in New York on June 11.

The southern executives will hold a sectional meeting at Washington June 9.

Today's conference, called by the eastern presidents to discuss the proposed request to the interstate commerce commission for an increase in rates, authorized R. N. Collyer, chairman of the Trunk Line Association, to outline to the Washington meeting the progress made by the eastern executives in their discussion.

Clyde Brown, general solicitor of the New York Central, presented the draft of a rate increase petition to the commission in which he recalled that traffic had decreased sharply, gross revenues fallen off and that the roads were practicing the greatest possible economies. No decision was reached by the eastern executives, however, on the form of their request.

Jury Reverses Decision To Indict Florida Wife

GAINESVILLE, Fla., June 5.—(AP)—Mrs. Nellie Pierce, 40, who was accused of murdering her husband when a grand jury earlier in the week failed to return a true bill against her, Thursday night was placed in jail again on a first degree murder indictment subsequently returned by the same inquisitorial body on the same count.

The jury reversed its decision following presentation of additional evidence presented by new witnesses. State's Attorney J. C. Adkins said it was the first time on record an Alachua county grand jury had taken such a step.

Mrs. Pierce is charged with shooting to death James F. Pierce, 41, bundling his body in bedclothes and driving with it 145 miles to Lakeland, where she was arrested.

HUGE ROAD PROGRAM IS REPORTED IN U. S.

Cost of Highway Building Will Total More Than 1,500 Millions.

NEW YORK, June 5.—(AP)—A billion-and-a-half-dollar roadbuilding program is being carried out in America this year, the American Automobile Association reported today following a national survey.

More than 60,000 miles of highway will be improved in the 45 states covered by the survey.

Louisiana's plans for the year call for improvement of 3,200 miles, the association found. New York state ranks second to Louisiana, with a proposed expenditure of $60,000,000. Illinois and Pennsylvania follow closely.

The total expenditures exceed those of 1930 by millions. It is expected this nationwide boom of road building will provide jobs for many now unemployed.

Texas has a program calling for the improvement of 2,400 miles and Oklahoma one with 2,300 miles. By 1932 it is estimated the country should have more than 750,000 miles of improved highways.

ADAMS TO PAY CALL ON HOOVER IN PLANE

WASHINGTON, June 5.—(AP)—Secretary Adams will go to President Hoover's Rapidan camp for a week-end conference tomorrow in the autogiro "windmill plane" which has been sold to the navy for tests.

His pilot will be David S. Ingalls, assistant secretary of the navy for aeronautics.

The autogiro will take off at 9 a. m., from the Anacostia naval air station on its 80-mile flight. Ingalls plans to land on the marine's landing field at the camp.

State Printing Department Attacked Before Committee

Manufacturer Represented by Assistant Official Charged as Departmental Probe Comes to End.

More charges against the state printing department, including one that M. L. Moore, assistant to the state printer, had represented envelope manufacturers in successful bids for state business, coupled with the disclosure of a pay roll for the university system of $2,654,368.88, Friday brought to a close the probe of state departments by the legislative reorganization committee.

Members of the committee will return to Atlanta the first of next week and remain in "practically continuous session" drafting a report to be submitted to the general assembly and, possibly, in making the tentative draft of a committee reorganization bill.

Figures on pay rolls for the university system, obtained for the committee by State Auditor Tom Wisdon, showed 295 employees at the University of Georgia receiving annual salaries of $474,840.23. The Georgia State College of Agriculture reported 428 employees and a pay roll of $712,555.57 and the Georgia School of Technology listed 408 employees and a pay roll of $470,071.98.

Annual salaries of the heads of the three institutions were: Chancellor Charles M. Snelling, University of Georgia, $9,069.96; Dr. A. M. Soule, Georgia State College of Agriculture, $9,898.88; and Dr. M. L. Brittain, Georgia School of Technology, $9,800.

State automobiles charged to the institutions included a Lincoln sedan driven by J. Phil Campbell, extension director at the Georgia State College of Agriculture; a Cadillac sedan driven by Dr. Soule and a Cadillac for Le Roy Brown, head of the Georgia Naval and Industrial College.

James L. Mauldin, Atlanta representative of a Baltimore paper house, charged Moore with selling envelopes to the state in competition with other bidders. He also charged that one paper company paid Moore's expenses to its Massachusetts mills.

Moore and Joseph Camp, his superior, both denied the former's connection with any company since the matter was called to the attention of former Governor Clifford Walker during his administration.

Camp admitted Moore had been given a trip to the paper mills, explaining that this was a customary practice.

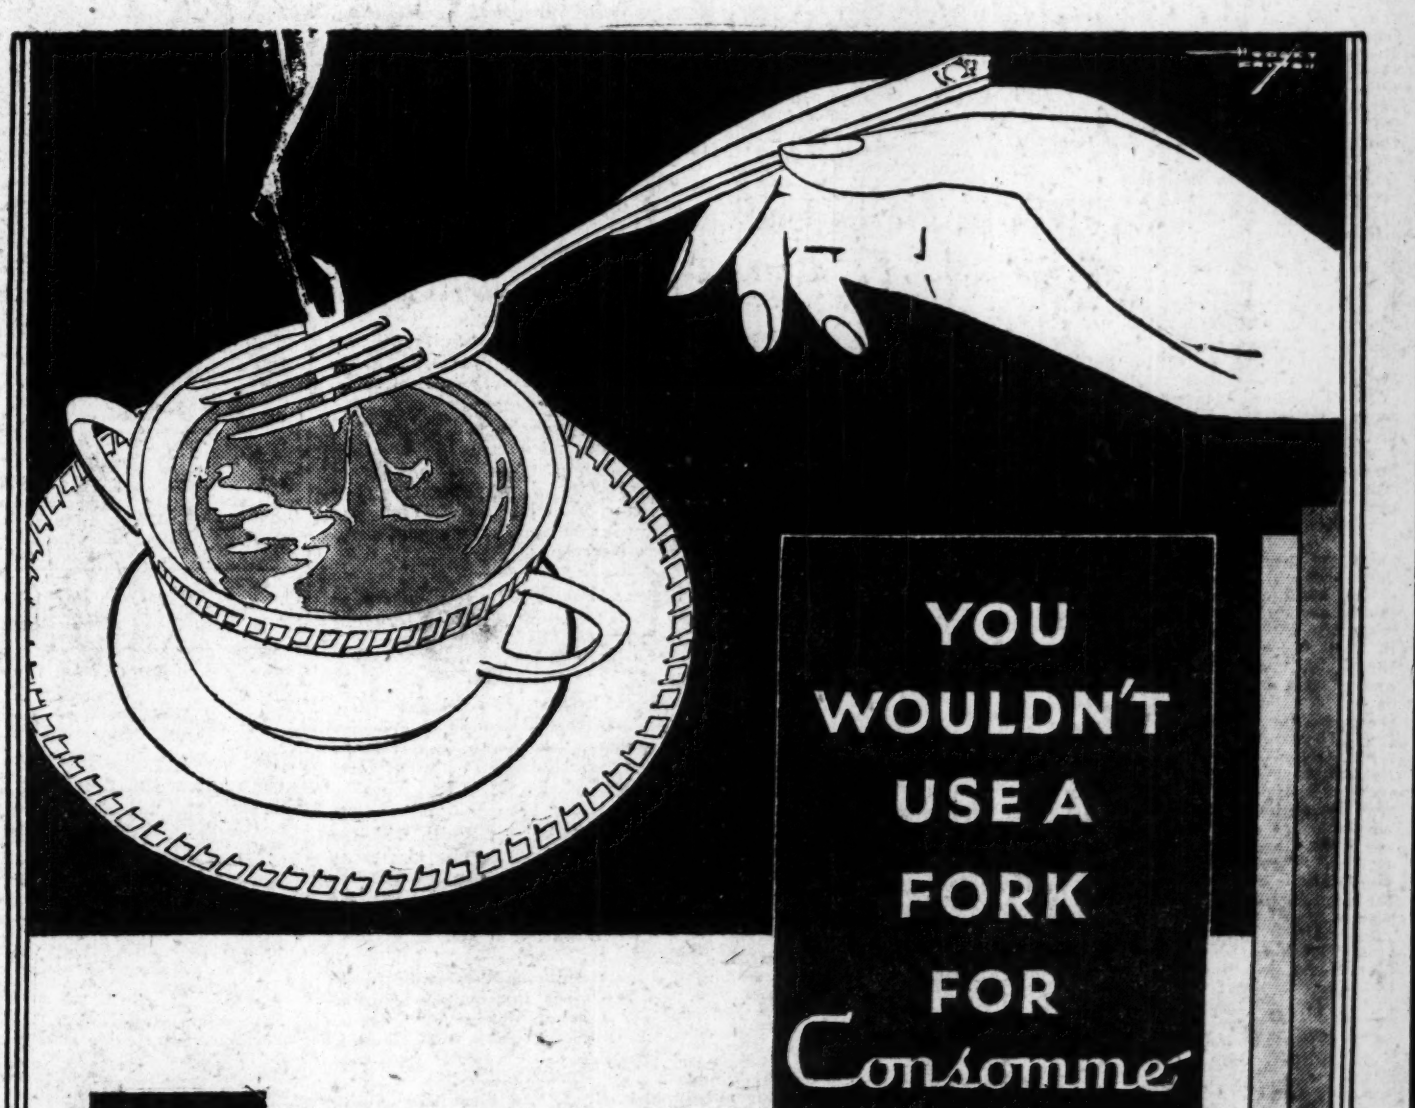

The salary and automobile list furnished the committee showed that there are 402 trustees of the various state schools who receive a per diem and that there are 44 boards and commissions with a personnel of 230 men and women. Most of the 522 trucks and automobiles are in the use of the state highway department.

Gerish Urges South To Face Problems And Seek Solution

Realization of common interests and a common identity will be the economic salvation of the southeast as it has been of New England, according to E. F. Gerish, personal representative of Dr. Julius Klein, director of the foreign trade bureau of the department of commerce, who attended the meeting of the southeastern economic council here Friday.

"The people of the southeast must recognize the essential difference of their problems from those met with in other sections, and must face them accordingly," he said in the course of an interview Friday afternoon.

"The purpose of the economic council, which has representatives from all southeastern states, is to perfect our methods of dealing with the peculiar problems of the southeast and to differentiate these wider, sectional problems from those of purely state or community interest," he asserted.

POONS for liquids, of course. It's obvious—an elementary text from the grand old gospel of common sense.

It's just as obvious that street cars are the safest, quickest, most comfortable and most economical means of transportation for downtown shopping trips—in these days of crowded traffic, non-parking laws and yellow curbs.

You simply sit back in a comfortable seat, plan your shopping by reading the newspaper ads or chat with your friends, slip swiftly through the traffic that boils outside the window—and let the operator of the car do your worrying for you.

You don't get wrinkles around the eyes from the strain of dodging through traffic and avoiding accidents. You don't drive round and round and round, looking for a place to park. You don't back and tug and slide-slip in an effort to take a vacant place at the curb—probably blocks from where you want to go, perhaps inviting a dread blue ticket for the violation of some law. Using a fork for consomme is just as wise as shopping by automobile.

On the street car you're protected from traffic's dangers, free from parking worries and—last, but by no means least—you're saving money. Your street car ticket, for seven and one-half cents, will be the biggest bargain of the day.

That's why it's smart to shop by street car. Try a sample ride!

THE GUMPS—KEEPING UP A FRONT

GRAND HOTEL

By VICKI BAUM

INSTALLMENT XXIII.

All this time while Grusinskaya stumbled in blind despairing flight along the Tauentzienstrasse, Berlin was brilliantly lighted, noisy, and very full. Passers-by looked with curiosity and amusement at her painted, distraught, and half-conscious face. Berlin was a cruel town. Grusinskaya, as she crossed the street to the less frequented side, cursed it. A fit of shivers took possession of her, though the air was mild and damp on this March evening and her woolen cloak steamed. Grusinskaya tried to utter her grief in words which became sobs and stuck in her throat and hurt her. She felt she might cry, but she did not. Her blue painted eyelids became hotter and drier.

Never again, she thought, never again. She stumbled on as though haunted by this thought. There was no grace left in her movements. She had no control over her body and it drooped forward at every step. Her hands were cold, as she now felt for the first time, and she began to search for gloves in the pockets of her old cloak. This was quite absurd, because for eight years past she had worn this cloak only behind the scenes as a protection against the draughts that blow through every theatre in the world. In her mind's eye she saw stage machinery and iron doors with red lamps above them, and the smooth slant of the stage sloping away at her feet. Never again, she thought, never again. The old-fashioned cloak was long. It hid her costume, but it hindered her movements. She turned aimlessly into quieter streets. She saw a Buddha in a shop window as she passed by. His quiet gilded bronze hands seemed as though they wished to bring calm to her crumbling world. Never to dance again. Never, never again. She tried to gain comfort from the thought of her old life, but they came in from the throat. "Sergei," she cried, "Gabriel, Gaston." She called on the names of her old sweethearts. Anastasia, too, her daughter, and finally even Ponpon, the little French son in Paris, whom she had never seen. But she was still alone with no one to console her. Suddenly she stopped with a start. What was I doing, she thought. I can't have done that. It isn't possible. I must go back. A church clock struck 11 slowly. Grusinskaya took her hands from the pockets of her cloak and let them fall in front of her. The gesture recalled the death of the beautiful dancer. Too late, the gesture said. The performance must be ending. Grusinskaya threw back her head and her eyes were fixed on the entrance of the hotel. She saw a small entrance framed in blue and yellow electric lights and over it the words: "Russian bar." She went across and stood at the door. She blew her nose like a child while she made up her mind. Russian bar, she thought. Suppose I go in? They would recognize me, and the red-tailed orchestra would play the Grusinskaya waltz. What a sensation.

No sensation whatever, she thought wretchedly a moment later. I can't go in looking as I do. And perhaps I shouldn't be recognized any longer. Besides, if they did recognize me—looking as I do now—tant pis, tant pis.

She signaled to an old rattletrap of a taxi and with a face that was suddenly fixed and cold, had herself driven to the hotel.

Gaigern stood like a sentry between the curtains and the lace hangings in room No. 68 and waited for the men in blue overalls down below to finish their job. They had been for wire and pinners and they called out to each other with much zeal, but still the lights did not go on. Consequently the whole front of the hotel was all the better illuminated by the arc lights in the street, by the electric signs opposite which advertised now a brand of champagne, now a variety of chocolate. Moreover Gaigern had not been standing there waiting more than 20 minutes before the door of No. 68 opened. The light was turned on and by the very modest illumination peculiar to hotel bedrooms he saw Grusinskaya enter. The shock went through Gaigern like cold steel. What on earth was the woman doing in the hotel at 20 minutes past 11? What could you do when you counted even count on the length of a theater performance? Gaigern had a dread of bad luck. And now what but bad luck could account for these cursed complications in which he seemed to be trapped? The light from the room penetrated the lace curtain behind which he stood and imprinted the shadow of its open work pattern on the balcony. There was nothing for it but to calm himself and keep his heart up. The string of pearls in his pocket had taken in the warmth of his body. They ran like peas through his fingers. For a moment it seemed to him idiotic and absurd that this handful of pearl-colored grains should be worth a fortune. Four months of lying in wait, seven meters at the risk of his life, and no sooner was one risk over than a new one took its place. One danger after another. His life was nothing but a string of dangers and the life of this Grusinskaya was a string of pearls. Gaigern shook his head and laughed in spite of the fix he was in. Gaigern was no thinker. Life often made him laugh with astonished amazement, almost simple-mindedly, for it was somewhat beyond his comprehension. Now, at any rate, he pulled himself together and, turning towards the room behind the lace curtains, he proceeded to walk in. First Grusinskaya stood motionless for nearly a minute in the middle of the room just below the glass-shaped hanging light and it seemed for a moment that she had lost herself. She stood there till her cloak fell of its own weight from her drooping arms, and then she stepped over to the telephone on the table. It was a minute or so before she got the theater and Pimenov.

"Hello, Pimenov. Yes, it's Grusinskaya. I am in the hotel. You must forgive me. Yes, I was unwell suddenly. My heart you know. I could scarcely breathe. Yes, like that time in Scheveningen. No, I'm better now. It must have put you in a fix, I know. How did Lucille get on? What? Oh, fair. And the audience? What's that? No, I am not upset. Went off quietly? Not much applause. A different program, you think? Good. Well, I'll talk it over. No, I'm going to bed. No, no doctor, please. Nor Witte either. No, no, no, I want nobody but Sergei. I'll only want to be left in peace. You will drive, please, to the French Embassy and make my excuses. Thank you. Good night, my dear. Good night, Pimenov. Listen, Pimenov, my greetings to Witte and Michael too and all the rest as well. No, don't worry about me, I'll be all right tomorrow. Good night."

She replaced the receiver on its hook. "Good night, my dear," she said softly after she had done so, standing alone in the hotel bedroom. So it was her heart, thought Gaigern. She was ill. It had needed all his attention to follow the rapid French words. So that was why she had turned up at this worst of all possible moments. She looked wretched certainly. All to the good for she would go to sleep and then there would be a hope of taking his leave of her. The great thing was to keep calm. He moved cautiously to the edge of the balcony and looked over. The two idiots in blue were sitting there in consultation. They had hung their two fine dark lanterns and looked as if they were prepared to put in the entire night on overtime. Gaigern's craving for a cigarette reached the pitch of desire. Inside the room meanwhile, Grusinskaya had come up to the cheval glass with its two wings. The plundered suitcase lay in front of it. Gaigern's heart suddenly thumped in his chest. However, she pushed the leather case aside without a glance at it, and turning on the light over the center of the mirror she grasped its frame with both hands and pressed her face close up to the glass, as though she meant to plunge right into it. The attention with which she then studied her face had something probing, greedy, and gruesome about it. Odd creatures, women, thought Gaigern behind the curtain. Strange animals. What can she see in the glass to make such a frightful face over?

TARZAN AT THE EARTH'S CORE No. 6

"Hold her steady, Captain!" cautioned Gridley. "I believe we are now going over the lip of the polar opening. The deviation is in the compass only and not in our course. The needle may spin erratically in a circle. Now we are on the eastern verge of the opening. If whatever deviation from the present opening you make is to starboard, we shall slowly spiral down into Pellucidar." Captain Zuppper shook his head, dubious. "You know I have been skeptical about this, ever since you explained it to me," he remarked.

Remnants of Gray Army Move Again Along Historic Route

MONTGOMERY, Ala., June 5—
(AP)—The years rolled back for a handful of the army of 600,000 that followed Lee today as they rolled up historic Dexter avenue to receive the acclaim of thousands who lined the streets to pay them homage.

A lone veteran from Louisiana being made by the weary souls who journeyed here this week.

Throughout the week shrines of the Confederacy have been kept open and Governor Miller has maintained open house in the executive offices.

While every preparation was made to care for them should they become ill, except for fatigue, few veterans reported to first-aid stations.

For those who cannot leave until tomorrow, programs of vaudeville and band concerts continued tonight so that not a dull moment was in store for any of them.

At the railway station, many shed tears as they parted from comrades whom they may not meet again, but they smiled again as they said, "I'll see you in Richmond."

GOVERNMENT ASSURES
150,000 EMPLOYMENT

WASHINGTON, June 3.—(AP)—President Hoover expects an increase of 150,000 by September in the number of persons employed by the government.

The chief executive announced today the total number of persons now regularly employed and those hired for construction work was 1,554,000. Of this number, 901,000 are under regular employment.

In January, 1930, the government had 235,000 persons employed upon walked the route that Jefferson Davis followed to his inauguration on the portico of the state capitol 70 years ago. The route, however, numbering more than 1,500, rode.

This hardy warrior, with head high and a sabre flashing in the sun, strode up the street as a parade of honor to four battle-scarred flags carried by four Boy Scouts.

The president today estimated that by September this year there would be a total of 805,000 people working upon construction, compared with 653,000 in 1930.

Included in the figures of those regularly employed were the army, and navy personnel.

In 1930, the number of regularly employed has fallen off approximately 1,000.

Atlanta Personnel Of Freight Bureau Welcomed to City

At the head of Dexter avenue, flags were dipped as the column turned right onto the street. At the corner where Davis was sworn in.

As the parade moved up the street, the crowd on the sidewalks was wide circles, dipping its wings in sal-lute to the heroes of the sixties.

General C. A. DeSaussure, of Memphis, was elected president, and his new staff, Governor B. M. Miller and other officials dropped from the ranks of the Southern Memorial Association, and with military smartness, the veterans saluted as they rolled by in a double column of automobiles.

Behind the veterans who were lined up in state divisions, came the women of the Confederate Southern Memorial Association, and their staff of sponsors, maids and matrons of honor.

Cottrell, assistant chairman, expressing his regret at being unable to attend, said that he was acting as secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

The bureau, which represents a consolidation of the Southern Memorial Association and its state branches, has added about 500 persons to Atlanta's population.
